

Aphasia Awareness Month 2017

"Aphasia means
I have lost my words,
not my intellect."

Aphasia is the medical word for language loss. Aphasia is caused by damage to the language centres of the brain. This could be as the result of a stroke, head injury or neurological condition. Aphasia affects speaking, reading, writing and sometimes understanding.

Find out more about aphasia and how we can help:

Follow us on social media
@AphasiaIntl
and #Aphasia

Association
Internationale
Aphasie, AIA

www.aphasia-international.com

Tips for better conversations

Keep sentences short and simple

Slow down, give me time

Make eye contact

Use gestures to help

Write key words, draw or use pictures

Check I have understood